Fire Destroys Market Office But the final 2013 Holiday Market is ON!

By now, you've probably heard about the fire that consumed the City Market office building on the Water Street lot. The market managers have been scrambling all week to regroup so that the final market of the season can take place as scheduled -- and it will! This Saturday morning, as it has since April, our amazing vendors will transform the Water Street lot into a bustling market -- and we hope you'll join us as we bid adieu to the 2013 market season!

Food, music, gifts, greenery --

100+ vendors, and holiday spirit at every turn.

Saturday, December 21 8 am to 1 pm

If you've missed news coverage of the fire, we've linked a Daily Progress article here, and Coy Barefoot's radio interview with City Fire Chief Charles Werner here.

Central Virginia's local food scene suffered a huge loss in November with the passing of Richard Bean, who along with his partner, Jean Rinaldi, founded Double H Farm in Wingina (Nelson County). Richard lost his battle with cancer the day before Thanksgiving, and as C-ville Weekly's Erika Howsare stated - "this place won't taste nearly as good without him". Her touching remembrance can be found here, and we invite you to read Beyond the Flavor's 2012 beautiful feature on Double H Farm here. We'll miss you something fierce, Richard!
